

MEET THE SCIENTIST:

DR. AUTUMN-LYNN

Hi everyone!
I'm Autumn-Lynn, a research ecologist at the Smithsonian Migratory Bird Center!

FIELD NOTES

Being a wildlife biologist you have to get VERY comfortable with all the stuff that can come out of animals. From crawling through seal and sea lion poop, to getting projectile pooped on by very large birds - things can get pretty messy!

FAVORITE FOOD

Maryland blue crabs! I love them for the time it takes eating them with family, the cultural heritage, and the taste!
Growing up and eating food caught right off my Grandmom's wharf connected me to the resource, to the history and culture of the Chesapeake Bay, and to my family.